About the Seminar

Cher once truly said that "women are the real architects of society." The process of ensuring that women, and particularly poor women, have access to and control over all types of resources in a country is known as "woman emancipation.". A society that fails to harness the energy and creativity of its women is at a huge disadvantage in the modern world." – Tian Wei. Gender sensitization is the process of making people more aware of the issues surrounding gender equality. It aids individuals in considering their own attitudes and beliefs as well as challenging the realities of both sexes. People who have undergone gender sensitization have a better understanding of the differences between sexes, how gender is socially produced, and gender stereotypes. The purpose of gender sensitization is to educate working professionals about the value of gender sensitivity in the workplace. Gender is socially learned behavior based on what is expected of men and women in society. The most vulnerable groups are mothers and children.
